How often in life do we "speak about the temple", and how it is adorned, speaking of its splendour and beauty? Whatever temple we adore, be it our place of worship, an object, our home, family or even our bodies, Jesus reminds us that the day will come when it will no longer exist and "all will be thrown down". We look forward to the time when nothing can separate us from the love of God – neither death nor things present, nor things to come, nor anything in creation. In our current information age, there are many who speak in extreme words, exaggerating the truth and telling the news in alarming and unsettling ways. Unlike Jesus, they do not offer truth or life. I listen to him now and hear how he speaks to me of faith, hope and love. (Extract: Sacred Space, Irish Jesuits)

A Tug on the Line

A twelve year old boy accepted Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour and Lord during a weekend revival meeting. The next week, his school friends questioned him about the experience. Did you hear God talk?' one asked. No,' the boy said. Did you have a vision? another asked. 'No,' the boy replied. Well, how did you know it was God? a third friend asked. The boy thought for a moment and then said, 'It's like when you catch a fish. You can't see the fish or hear the fish; you just feel him tugging on your line. I felt God tugging on my heart' So often we try to figure out life by what we can see, hear or experience with our other senses. We make calculated estimates and judgments based on empirical evidence. There's a level of truth, however, that cannot be perceived by the senses or measured objectively. It's at that level where faith abounds. It is our faith that compels us to believe, even when we can-not explain to others why or how. By our faith, we only know in Whom we trust and that is sufficient.

Supporting Family Ministry

The Family Ministry group is proposing to facilitate a workshop in The Family Centre, Chapel Street, Longford (N39 E927) on Saturday 19th November from 9.30am to 12noon offering ideas and support to those Parishes who might be interested in exploring ways of developing Family Ministry in their Parish. We will look at The Family Mass, "Do this in Memory' programme, and other celebrations that involve family participation.
